No. 43(C)

[Camberwell, London, England] The writer encloses Parker Pillsbury's letter of Feb.23,1855. Appeals to Miss Estlin, George Thompson, and Frederick William Chesson for confirmation of his hospitable conduct toward Pillsbury. Wanted to remove the causes of the dissension between the English and American Abolitionists. Mentions an affair involving William Wells Brown. Says he had been unable to find Mr. Pillsbury, and had asked Thompson and Chesson for his address. Complains that Pillsbury had insulted him. Says he "is done with him forever."

«Camberwell New Road» The writer has been ill with a "severe nervous derangement." The printing of the conference proceedings has been delayed by the Xmas holidays. The writer is astonished that any doubt should be expressed "respecting George Thompson's speech on the motion of Mr. «Francis» Bishop ... Mr. Thompson did assuredly do full justice to the American Society ..." Thinks it would have been wiser if Mr. Bishop had abstained from presenting his motion. The printed resolution, which Mr. Bishop says he has, was private. The writer believes in following a course which will "allow old differences to heal themselves." [illegible] Pillsbury's "attack on delinquent American Friends was [illegible]n good taste." Slave Life in Georgia is out and should be circulated on account of the "interior view it gives of Slavery."

.(London). The writer wants to know Parker Pillsbury's authority for the statement that 9000 or 19000 slaves are imported annually into the southern states. Thinks it best to let the question of G. Thompson's speech settle itself. "He got that speech from me." The writer explains the lack of taste in Pillsbury's speech. "It is a question of truth, not of taste." Believes that truth may be highly colored by party or other feelings.

To [Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman?]

[Paris] The writer thinks that, since a medal was presented by the French "democracy" to Mrs. Lincoln, it is fitting that one should also be presented to Mrs. John Brown. The writer has been asked to write a life of John Brown, but cannot do so because he lacks the necessary documents. Would like to combine biography with a history of the Anti-Slavery cause. Channing, William Ellery, 1780-1842 Ms.A.9.2

Graduated from Harvard in 1798. Tutored in a Southern family where he developed an intense aversion to slavery. Became pastor of the Congregational Church in Federal Street, Boston, on June 1,1803. New England religion, generally Puritan in its theology, had been in a state of suspended animation for about fifty years. Channing's preaching brought new life to his church, but his personal views caused a division of the Congregationalists into the Evangelical and Unitarian sects with Channing the leader of the Unitarians. He was opposed to the violence of the Abolitionists and didn't like their denunciatory tone. Died at Bennington, Vt. in 1842. See main cards for full contents.

:Brattleboro, Vt.: The writer's reaction to a recent article by the addressee on "fallacies of nomenclature" in the Standard. Asks whether anything "specially called forth" her "blow at Fourierism." Expresses some thoughts on the Association Movement. There are two classes of Associationists. One class believes that slavery can be abolished effectually only by Association, but this does not advocate immediate emancipation. The second class thinks that slavery must be abolished "before the question of the full elevation of Labor can be thoroughly brought home..." The writer's own zeal for the anti-slavery cause has grown [illegible] proportion to his increasing trust in Association. Is co[illegible]d that "Antislavery victory must be won, before our day [illegible] triumph for Association can come."

To Rev. Samuel May Jr.

«Boston» Invitation to two State Conventions, the first to be held at Worcester on October 6th and 7th; and the second at Springfield on October 8th and 9th. These conventions will be very important. Questions to be considered are the withholding of political support from pro-Slavery candidates at the coming State and Presidential elections and "the duty of Abolitionists generall in relation to pro-Slavery parties ..." Messrs. Garrison and Rogers will give an account of their tour in Great Britain.

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

«Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, N. Y.» The writer thanks his mother for letters sent with money and clothing. Thinks he can be at home by the 16th if he can get enough money for the boat trip. They will not be paid here till the 25th of September. All are trying to transfer to the places they came from; the captain of the company, having asked the writer if he wished to return to Newport, said he would do the best he could for them. The writer has been looking around the city; tells about the fishes in the Aquarium and the animals at Central Park.
